

A Spring Celebration

SYNC WITH NATURE AS YOU GARDEN

Syncing with nature is a healthy and rewarding experience. Our own garden is one of our most valuable connections to nature. It is a perfect balance in our high-tech world. Good gardeners know it is easier to work with nature than to fight it. We offer a wide selection of organic-based products including many new fertilizers, soil products and pest controls. Our plant doctors can explain the safety and effectiveness of the products available.

Conserving water in your landscape is easy to achieve with the use of mulches, soil amendments, soaker hoses and drip irrigation. Our experts will help you select the right plants for the right spaces.

Vegetable gardening will be popular again this year. Growing your own is the ultimate in locally-produced food. Food waste is an environmental concern. Gardeners waste less because they eat more of what they have grown. This is especially true for those who give their excess away to friends, neighbors or food banks.

This is our favorite time in the garden center. All the flowers are coming to the front from the back greenhouses and everything is looking fresh and full. All the empty spaces of winter have been filled. New products and plants are being put out in the store and it is exciting to explore what is new and improved. Thank you for coming back year after year and letting us share our excitement with you.

The love of gardening is a seed once sown that never dies.

Gertrude Jekyll

Tips from the pros.

ECHTER'S PLANT DOCTORS ARE AVAILABLE 7 DAYS A WEEK TO ANSWER YOUR GARDENING QUESTIONS. IF YOU NEED HELP WITH A PEST OR DISEASE, BRING IN A SAMPLE FOR AN ACCURATE DIAGNOSIS.

FLOWER GARDENS

Remember to harden off your newly purchased plants for 4-7 days, especially in April and May. Days and nights can still be too cold for a young plant right out of the greenhouse. Check our website for safe planting dates for different types of flowers and vegetables.

Flowering annual starts, which can be planted outside in early April (after hardening off) are; alyssum, sweet peas, larkspur and snapdragons.

Plant gladioli, lilies, cannas, callas, ranunculus, crocosmia and other summer-blooming bulbs toward the end of April.

Cut back butterfly bushes, spirea, Russian sage and other late summer blooming shrubs in April.

Look for distorted leaflets on honeylocust trees. Leafhoppers can damage the tree's fine leaves.

Avoid planting annuals around new trees. There is a danger of overwatering, which will prevent your tree's roots from growing deep into the ground to find water. This can make them more susceptible to toppling over in the wind and to disease.

Remove tree wrap from tree trunks now.

VEGETABLE GARDENS

Keep an N-sulate cover handy for spring frosts after your garden is planted.

If the soil temperature is at least 40° F, plant spinach, peas, onion seeds and sets, Swiss chard, radishes, turnips, carrots, kale, lettuce, leeks, rutabaga, bare root strawberries, asparagus and potatoes directly into your garden.

Enjoy an earlier growing season by using Season Starter plant protectors in April. Tomato and pepper plants can be planted inside them 10 days after initial set up to ensure proper soil temperature for plant growth.

Remember to rotate your vegetable garden each year. Plant vegetables in a different part of your garden than you did last year. This will help to minimize repeated disease and insect problems.

LAWNS

Early April is the best time to start fertilizing your lawn. Use a fertilizer with a pre-emergent weed and grass preventer. For All Seasons II blocks many annual grass and weed seeds from germinating.

April is a good time to seed or overseed lawns. Use a good grass seed and apply New Lawn Starter fertilizer after the seed is sown. Keep the area moist even after germination. Do not apply a pre-emergent crabgrass control before or after seeding, as this will prevent grass seed germination. Sod is an easy alternative to seeding.

Use a rain gauge to measure the amount of water you are putting on your lawn. Apply 3/4" to 1" slowly enough to evenly soak the lawn without running off the area.

BIRDS

Clean out birdhouses to get them ready for this season's feathered friends. Use a bird feeder cleaner before the new birds arrive.

TREES & SHRUBS

Tired of raking up crabapples? Spray crabapple trees with Florel Growth Regulator at mid-to-full bloom. This will prevent fruit from forming.

Welcome to our house.

ECHTER'S ROSE CELEBRATION

Echter's line of Week's Roses will perform beautifully. Week's roses undergo rigorous testing in the growing fields. Broad spacing encourages vigorous roots and sturdy productive canes. Week's varieties are cold hardy and acclimate easily when planted in our Colorado gardens.

SAVE WITH SPECIAL PRICING WHEN YOU BUY 4 OR MORE ROSES DURING THE ROSE CELEBRATION.

MEET THE ROSARIANS

Meet Rosarians from the Denver Rose Society Saturday, May 5 and Sunday, May 6 from 9 am until 5 pm.

They will be available to answer questions and assist in selection of beautiful roses for your garden.

THE ROSE CHALLENGE

Play the Rose Challenge and match our displayed roses to the correct variety. It's fun and everyone can play!
